

Haematologica
HAEMATOL/2016/159947
Version 3

Cdk6 contributes to cytoskeletal stability in erythroid cells

Iris Z. Uras, Ruth M. Scheicher, Karoline Kollmann, Martin Glösmann,
Michaela Prchal-Murphy, Anca S. Tigan, Daniela A. Fux, Sandro
Altamura, Joana Neves, Martina U. Muckenthaler, Keiryn L. Bennett,
Stefan Kubicek, Philip W. Hinds, Marieke von Lindern, and Veronika
Sexl

Disclosures: All authors declare no competing financial interest. Funding: This work was made possible by the Austrian Science Fund (FWF) Grant SFB F47 (SK and VS) and FWF Grant P 24297-B23 (VS), by an ERC-advanced grant (VS) and by EMBO ASTF 103.00-2011a (RMS).

Contributions: VS was the principal investigator and takes primary responsibility for the paper; IZU, RMS, KK, MG, MPM, AST, DAF, SA, JN and MM performed the laboratory work for this study; IZU, RMS and VS wrote the manuscript; KLB performed mass spectrometry analysis; SK supervised and analyzed drug testing; PWH provided Cdk6 K43M/K43M mice; part of the laboratory work was performed at the Sanquin Research Center, Amsterdam under supervision of ML.