

Aplastic anemia is an acquired disease characterized by bone marrow failure due to immune cell attack on the bone marrow

miR-145-5p and miR-126-3p, via MYC and PIK3R2, have regulatory roles in T cell activation

There is pharmacological rationale for potential use of synthetic miRNAs mimics to limit disease