

Haematologica
HAEMATOL/2016/145136
Version 3

Specific antibody deficiency and autoinflammatory disease extend the clinical and immunological spectrum of heterozygous NFKB1 loss-of-function mutations in humans

Cyrill Schipp, Schafiq Nabhani, Kirsten Bienemann, Natalia Simanovsky, Shlomit Kfir-Erenfeld, Nathalie Assayag-Asherie, Prasad T. Oommen, Shoshana Revel-Vilk, Andrea Hönscheid, Michael Gombert, Sebastian Ginzler, Daniel Schäfer, Hans-Jürgen Laws, Eitan Yefenof, Bernhardt Fleckenstein, Arndt Borkhardt, Polina Stepensky, and Ute Fischer

Disclosures: None

Contributions: CS and SN performed laboratory work, designed research, analyzed data and wrote the paper; SK-E, NA-A and DS performed laboratory work and analyzed data; AH and MG designed and performed laboratory work; SG developed and performed bioinformatics analyses; PTO, KB, SR-V, H-JL, NS, AB and PS recruited the probands and analyzed clinical data; EY and BF provided material and reagents, designed and supervised research; AB designed research; UF designed research, analyzed data and wrote the paper; UF and PS were the principal investigators and take primary responsibility for the paper.