

Haematologica
HAEMATOL/2017/183954
Version 4

Low-count monoclonal B-cell lymphocytosis persists after 7 years of follow-up and is associated with a poorer outcome

Ignacio Criado, Arancha Rodríguez-Caballero, M. Laura Gutiérrez, Carlos E. Pedreira, Miguel Alcoceba, Wendy Nieto, Cristina Teodosio, Paloma Bárcena, Alfonso Romero, Paulino Fernández-Navarro, Marcos González, Julia Almeida, and Alberto Orfao
Collaborative Groups: The Primary Health Care Group of Salamanca for the Study of MBL)

Disclosures: The authors declare no competing financial interests or any other conflict of interest.

Contributions: Contribution: IC performed research, analyzed data and wrote the manuscript; AR-C, MLG, CEP, WGN and CT performed research and analyzed data; AR and PF-N contributed to collect samples and data from healthy individuals and performed the coordination with the Primary Health Care Group; MA and MG collected clinical data; PB performed research; JA and AO designed research, analyzed data and wrote the paper; Members of "The Primary Health Care Group of Salamanca for the Study of MBL" directly collected samples and data from the cohort of healthy donors and MBLio subjects recruited. All authors have read and approved the final version of the manuscript.